Description

Very attractive set of 2 JAMES II small silver gilt chased trefid forks and 2 matching trefid spoons.

Markers mark only (mark on one spoon barely visible): J.C. (attributed by Kent to John Clifton). London circa 1685.

The spoons and forks are chased both on the front and the back with scrolling acanthus leaves.

The two spoons have a rat tail on the reverse of the bowl surrounded by flame decoration.

These charming spoons and forks were probably used for eating sweetmeat.

Length: 4.5 inches

Weight: 1.2 troy ounces the four.
