

SANDA LIPTON

ANTIQUÉ SILVER

James Watts Pair of George III Old English Gravy Spoons.
London 1781

£1,100

REF:- 318093

AUTHORLABEL : Thomas Wallis II, London

Short Description

Particularly elegant pair of extremely well made George III Old English gravy spoons.

Made in London 1781 by Thomas Wallis II.

The end of the front of each stem is engraved with a decorative W.

The hallmarks are stamped at the base of the reverse of the stem and are extremely crisp and clear.

These serving spoons belonged to James Watt. He was the famous Scottish inventor, mechanical engineer and chemist who developed the Watt steam engine which was crucially fundamental to the growth of the industrial revolution.

Provenance: Ownership by descent through the family of James Watt.

Size:- Length 12 inches (30 cm)

Weight:- 3.5 troy ounces (108.86 grams)

More Information

Year	1781
Medium	Silver
Origin	London
Condition	Excellent with a wonderful balance. These spoons are well up to the standard of the Master Silversmith who made them.